

My reflection on this project:

What questions did you have?

The two questions that I had were; I only had fishing lines and was it going to be strong enough? And is this really how the hand works?

How did you resolve any issues?

The hardest part was threading the string through the straws and straws flying everywhere when you cut them. I straws I eventually got a tupperware container so they would keep rolling everywhere and the threading I just had patience and kept going.

Did you try more than once?

I only did created it once but I did move and retape some of the straws.

How did you feel as you moved through the project?

Going through this project I thought it was going to be a lot quicker than it was. I thought I would sit down and be done in 5 minutes. It took a lot longer to tape everything on. My husband came by and actually said "Wow! That's pretty cool!" which made me feel better about working on the project.
